Second Physical Fitness Day Is Scheduled For Saturday

With thoughts on the sale of War Stamps as well as physical fitness, the entire GSCW student body will abandon academic work on Saturday, October 2, in order to participate in the second annual Physical Fitness Day.

It will be sponsored by the Recreation Association. Margaret Wilson is president. Lucy Nell Cunningham will serve as general manager.

Each dormitory will have its own teams in volleyball, softball, tennis, archery, horseshoes, badminton, shuffleboard, and table tennis. A highly competitive spirit will be encouraged, and a trophy awarded the dormitory found "most physically fit."

A bonfire and "pep meeting" in Nesbit Woods on Friday night will inaugurate Physical Fitness Day. At this time each dormitory will have the opportunity to display its enthusiasm with songs and yells.

Games will continue all day Saturday, with activities coming to an end when a picnic supper is served on the front campus.

Colonnade Changes To Bi-Weekly Edition

With the October 5 issue. The Colonnade will be published bi-monthly. This change from weekly publication was necessitated by priorities which make it difficult to obtain paper and by decreased enrollment, which has reduced the student activity fee from which publication expenses are paid.

The first issue of The Colonnade appeared in 1925. Publication has been continuous since that time. Among the members of the first staff were Margaret Meadows, alumnae secretary, and May Lee Anderson, principal of

HANCOCK WELCOMES NEW STUDENTS

Dear New Students:

It is a joy to have you at GSCW. You have been here over a week now, and we hope that you like us as much as we have grown to like you.

We want so much for you to take part in all phases of our college life—its work, its activities, and its fun—for it is only by putting ourselves into each that we gain the full and enriched life college girls should know.

Especially do we want to help you really make this a college home; and if there is any way we can help, please let us know.

We give you our best wishes for a happy year.

Sincerely yours,

FAYE HANCOCK,

President, CGA.

WHAT'RE WE DOING HERE ANYWAY?

What're we doing in college anyway? If one of the soldiers or other visitors who wander around the campus on week-ends asked us, could we give a satisfactory answer? Do we know why we're here? Are college students necessary?

With so much going on in the world, it's imperative that we be prepared to stand up to the world and give an account of ourselves. About 900 students enrolled in GSCW this fall. Why? If the proverbial man from Mars were to drop out of the blue would he find us drifting from one class to the next, living only for week-ends?

Are the months we intend to spend here this year and maybe, during the other war years really for the general good? We've asked ourselves and, possibly each of us has her own individual answer. But why are we here? Why are we allowed to stay when every American citizen should be finding the place in the general scheme of things where he can do the greatest good?

"Education is a nation's first defense!" A statesman told the English Parliament two centuries ago. Nations' faith in this principal still holds. We're here to justify that faith.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

This column is compiled and written by members of the International Relations Club. When Congress reconvened on Tuesday, September 14, the message from the President, read in both houses, was hailed even by the violently Republican New York Herald-Tribune, as "Roosevelt at his best."

The Roosevelt message was unusual in many respects, first, because it proposed no controversial legislation; second, because it is the longest; and, third because it is the President admitted that his administration in Washington had made mistakes.

The President stated that at Quebec plans for the landing on the continent had been set, that U.S.-British bombings of Germany was doing more than just "helping" Russia, that U.S.-British action in the Solomons and New Guinea had practically destroyed the Japanese threat to Australia and New Zealand, that the most dangerous threat to the United States is the feeling that the war is practically over, and that both from Germany and Japan we can expect a long, hard fight. He answered his critics soberly and thoughtfully.

A few Republicans saw in the tone of the message, and the references toward the need of opportunity for returning soldiers and displaced war workers, initial strokes in the fourth-term campaign, but none denied that it was a fine message.

ADVICE TO FRESHMEN

Dear Freshmen:

You have a clean slate; I envy you. Mine is fully chalk-smear-ed. Part of it's messy, where I've erased and written again. Some parts are good, though, where I made the marks clear-cut against the back.

If you've read this far you've probably wondering why upper-classmen always feel it their moral duty to hand out advice to freshmen. They need not waste their time. I know from experience that we take advice, but seldom heed it. So this is not an "advisory" letter. Perhaps I should have said "Dear Me" instead of "Dear You," for this is just some food for thought that I wish I could have had fed to me three years ago.

Organizations are always wary of those of you who contract "joining fever." Join more than one organization if you wish, but try to keep them limited to those you know you're interested in, and skip the ones you just think you're interested in. And also remember, if you can, that (if I may be trite) stickability amounts to just as much as ability, and I know whereof I speak. Your church student group is about the best thing you can support—for actual satisfaction is rather rare but here you can find it. Another thing, this is one year that you're going to need all the faith you have and can develop. Your church and its organizations can help you here.

One last thing, be careful of the chalk marks you make on your slate—they're mighty hard to erase.

Love.

A VERY FRESH SENIOR.

"Gosh, We're Glad to be Back"

DISPASSIONATE SHEPARD

By MARJORIE SHEPARD

Are those groans, lamentations or bona fide wails from down-hearted frails issuing from the four corners of this glorious campus? Quite the contrary. In response to the ol' maestro's perennial query, "Ev'body's happy!"

We aren't bemoaning the usual ills, such as leaving a gay summer behind, since they're either too young or too old (unquote) anyhow. Neither are we sad about a lingering parting with Jerry or Jacko. He's been in Alaska for the last six months. And then the stunning new fall clothes that we didn't acquire don't phase us, since who ever saw a lady hippo resemble anything but in a skirt that is only a foot wide at the hem? In more words, we gals are glad! We're glad to be back and to see everyone, and to be where there is a little action and reaction, and people occasionally do things that count. We're peppy and zingy, and all the other trite things enthusiastic students are supposed to be at the beginning of a new quarter.

We have ambitious plans for our courses, our friends, and our war work. We're sure that we'll each make a dent, of sorts, in the new college year. Anyhow, we're glad. Or are we? If it's a negative answer to the ol' per-lesser's question, come see us!

Campus Courtesies Tells All That Every Young "Jessie" Should Know

For decades, the social ethics practiced in higher educational systems have been grounded under a morass of ignorance. Potential Ph. D.s have been noted (in the more extreme cases) to shout at one another from distances of more than fifteen feet, and in one instance, an M.A. was seen to extract a piece of chewing gum from her mouth with a fork.

Such naivetes as these have long been tolerated with a conservative passivity, undeniably foreign to the liberal society in which we find ourselves today.

For edited by the Good Manners Committee of the College Government Association of the Georgia State College for Women is Campus Courtesies, which bids fair to revolutionize the hitherto unfortunate department of campus inhabitants. Reactionaries, holding that letters of introduction are still necessary before cordial relations can be established between the sexes, will be disappointed to learn of the Taking into consideration the inhibitory seclusiveness of the educational mind as opposed to the gregariousity of that of the normal individual, the authors have approached their subject from a tactfully subtle angle—one that will undoubtedly sublimate the past peccadillos of our social existence.

DR. HARRY LITTLE TO HOLD TWO-DAY CONFERENCE

Dr. Harry Little, head of the department of education GSCW, will conduct a two-day planning conference with the teachers of Mitchell county at Camilla, Ga., on October 1 and 2.

in the Mansion, and a Baldwin County Alumnae Association Tea at the home of Mrs. W. M. Miller, followed by a visit to the old State Capitol Building on GMC campus.

An intensive study of the college handbook was carried on throughout the week. Sponsors, selected from among the upper-classmen, taught regulations, and strained their vocal chords in teaching the blessings and the Alma Mater to the new students.

Placement tests and physical examinations were also in order, and by the time the week was finished, the new "Jessies" felt like veterans.

Rec Center Built In Parks

By GRACE WOMBLE

Parks Hall was undermined, as you might say, but the results are about to be wonderful. We're going to have a new student recreation center, College Government office, Town Girls' room, and soda fountain. And the new furniture is already bought.

That addition on the music building is going to contain another auditorium, offices and classrooms. This building will house the Art and Music Departments.

Our Physical Education Building has new floors of asphalt tiling, and the auditorium has been painted. The college has also installed new pasteurizing equipment so that the students will have Grade A milk to drink. A friend of the college, Mrs. S. J. Stubbs has given the college a piece of land that is to be used for another student recreation center. Last but not least, a large laundry has been installed, and will soon be in operation.

There are no age limits; applications will be accepted in the Commission's Washington, D. C., office, until the needs of the service have been met.

Additional information and application forms may be obtained from Commission Local Secretaries at first, or second class post offices, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Students, Faculty Choose Napier Greatest Teacher In General Poll

From the several teachers nominated in a poll taken among faculty members and students during the summer session, Miss Alice Napier was chosen the most valuable and the greatest teacher at GSCW. This poll was conducted by Dr. Guy H. Wells at the request of Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, Atlanta.

Dr. Newton devoted one of a series of articles on acknowledged great teachers in his column, "Good Morning," to Miss Napier.

In a letter explaining the results of the poll, Dr. Wells stated: "There were several teachers here nominated for the position, but Miss Napier got by far the most votes. Frankly, I would have picked her myself as the most deserving. She has been with the institution over fifty years, and for unselfish devotion to the interests of womanhood and love of youth, I think that she has no superior in the state."

Miss Napier came to GSCW in 1893. Because of an operation this summer, she is unable to return this fall. She is now recuperating at her sister's home in Decatur, and will resume teaching as soon as possible.

The new student director, Dorothy Stephens, will arrive on campus around November 1.

Battlefront of Sacrifice Is Urged Upon U. S. Women to Aid 3rd War Loan Drive

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The women of America are going all-out to make a success of the Third War Loan Drive—to "Back the Attack" to the limit. For weeks they have been organizing to do their share toward raising the Treasury's unprecedented goal of 15 billion dollars in War Bond sales to non-banking investors.

In order to lay the groundwork for this intensive organization far enough in advance of the drive, Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director of the War Finance Division, in charge of women's activities, made a swing around the country during July. Regional conferences were held in Atlanta, Dallas, San Francisco, Denver, Cleveland and Boston.

"Women have been called to the battlefronts of sacrifice at a time when their brains, energies and money are most needed," says Miss Elliott. "Buy Bonds—by sacrifice, is the order of the day. If every woman in America would pledge herself to do without everything she possibly can, and carry out that pledge faithfully, she would make a genuine contribution to victory."

All groups of women are active in the drive. Many cities and counties are conducting Door-knocker canvasses and carrying out other promotional campaigns to see that every individual in these United States is reached to buy an extra $100 Bond in September. "It takes bench-to-bench, desk-to-desk, house-to-house, person-to-person contact to put over the job," Miss Elliott believes.

United in this tremendous effort are women belonging to foreign origin groups of every nationality, Negro women, college girls, farm women, war workers, club women—professional, religious, industrial, cultural, educational, patriotic and social groups—in fact, women of every age, from every walk of life.

RED CROSS ASKS FOR USED CLOTHES

Miss Mary Saltee, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, said today that the need for used clothing for men who have received disability discharges from the Army is becoming more acute. The Red Cross functions to help those men readjust themselves to civilian life, and one of their most urgent needs is clothing.

If the clothes are in fair condition, not necessarily good, take them to the Red Cross office.

Christmas Card Orders Taken By Union-Recorder

Orders for Christmas Cards, with printed signatures are being taken at The Union-Recorder office now. The number of boxes available are considerably less than in previous years, but by ordering early we were able to get enough to serve our customers.

If you are planning on buying cards, it would be wise to see our assortments and place your orders early. When the cards we have in stock are gone, we will not be able to buy more.

Early orders also insure prompt service. Those who wait until the last week may find many orders ahead of their own, and cause delay in delivery.
